WASHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL
MILWAUKEE, WISCONSIN

DEDICATION

MR. ELDON SCHNELLER

Mr. Schneller joined the English department in 1926, and was appointed its chairman in 1956. During his tenure at Washington, his extracurricular activities included, among others, the honor awards committee, the commencement committee, directorship of the June classes, and the Yearbook. His retirement in June, 1966, ended forty years of devoted service to Washington High School.

The thousands of students who recall him as a teacher remember his enthusiasm for the subject and his ability to instill a lasting appreciation for American and English literature. Because he was a firm believer in progress, both in and out of the classroom, he kept abreast of the latest trends in education, and adapted his course material to the needs of his students.

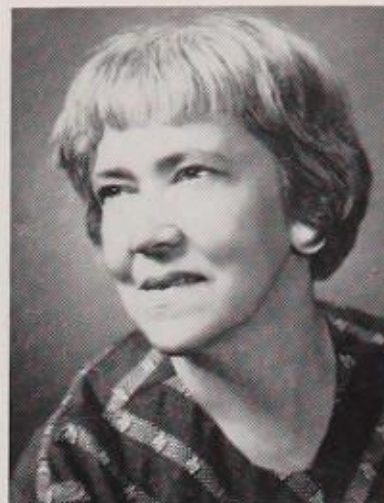

The same enthusiasm was carried over into the Yearbook. His firm conviction that a yearbook should be a record of the school's activities resulted in a comprehensive coverage of high school life. Under his guidance the book became not only a volume of happy memories but also a resource book of student activities. While his active participation as director ended when he was appointed chairman of the English department, he remained the faculty mentor of the Boys' Sports section and the Seniors section. His lively interest prompted every yearbook staff to work for excellence and accuracy in each year's issue.

One of the activities closest to Mr. Schneller's heart was his directorship of the June graduating classes. The same dedication he displayed in his classroom and on the yearbook was expended toward the graduates' activities. He took personal pride in watching each class's leaders grow in leadership and responsibility. Each class became a personal friend of his. Their problems became his and their rewards were his rewards.

IN TRIBUTE

LOUIS GOODRICH

The field of music was enriched by the teaching of Mr. Louis Goodrich. In his nineteen years at Washington he succeeded in combining a love of music with good citizenship, and his former students bear out his success.

MRS. FLORENCE GROSS

Mrs. Gross's transfer to Washington in 1944 introduced the school to an outstanding English teacher. Her active participation in school organizations endeared her to students both in and out of her classes.

EARL HANEY

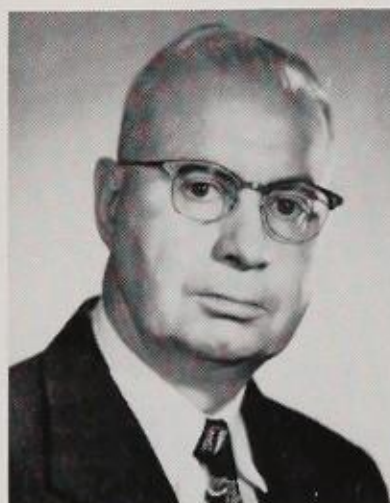

After serving as a principal in Carter, Wisconsin, for four years, Mr. Haney transferred to Washington in 1923 and devoted his efforts to teaching mathematics. Throughout the years many Purgolders have witnessed his active interest in the pupils' personal needs in his class work as well as in the Boys' Club.

ARCHIBALD HECHT

Mr. Hecht had the ability to enliven boys' gym sessions while at the same time bringing out the best efforts of the individual. His enthusiasm for sports, coupled with his rapport with his athletes, led to the coaching success he enjoyed throughout his twenty-nine years at Washington High School.

MRS. DORA GRUNEWALD

Wholehearted concern for her students distinguished Mrs. Grunewald as an outstanding language teacher. Her classes benefited from her thorough technique and her generous nature.

MRS. VIOLA LEE

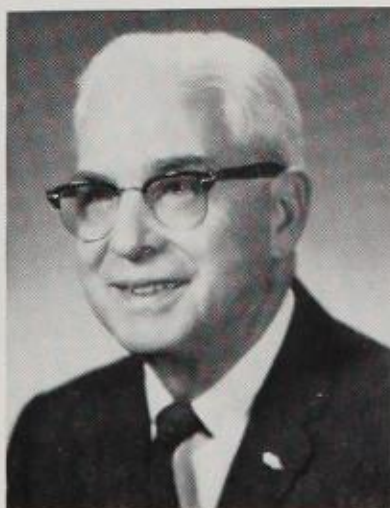

Mrs. Viola Lee joined the Washington High School faculty in 1956. Her fine work with math students for ten years ended with her retirement last spring. These were ten dedicated years and her former students benefited from her superior teaching.

A. E. MILLER

A member of the first faculty of Washington High School, Mr. Miller has left his indelible impression on thousands of alumni. His former students will remember him for his excellent teaching and marvelous sense of humor.

MISS LORNA MURPHY

Miss Lorna Murphy's retirement marked the close of forty-one years of service to Washington High School. Her outstanding teaching in the language department was responsible for the success of many Tonians throughout the years.

Students at Washington are fortunate in having a versatile and experienced faculty to guide them in their class work and extra curricular activities. To meet constantly changing demands on their profession they continue their education by attending conventions, workshops, and summer institutes. Thus, teachers add new approaches and techniques to established procedures in their subject areas. Guidance counselors too are constantly improving methods of assisting students in subject selection, career choices, and in the administration and use of tests. The administrative staff supervises the over-all activities of the school to provide an opportunity for the fullest development of every student.

ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY

Principal

Our world is about to witness ever greater development in technology and still more rapid changes. The differential between technology and human ability to work out adjustments will become all the more acute. To help meet the challenge it would be well for all to keep two thoughts in mind. First, it is not enough to have knowledge and be able to think right; we must also possess a certain breadth of feeling and sympathy. We need to try to understand human destiny and purposes of life as well as to know facts and reason well. Secondly, keep in mind that no individual is genuinely and lastingly happy unless he has something beyond himself to care about and work for. In serving others, be it individuals, groups, or causes, comes self-realization.

In Memoriam

MRS. VIRGINIA LEVIN

With the death of Mrs. Virginia Levin, Washington lost a dedicated teacher and a true friend. From the time that she herself was a student here, she became involved with Washington, an involvement which was to deepen and strengthen with every graduating class; for her influence never stopped at her classroom door. Sophomores or seniors; alumni at colleges throughout the country, or servicemen in war-torn areas of the world; teachers or administrators — she was involved with all. And because she was a part of Washington, we all sat taller, walked straighter, and reached higher. Her standards were high; she would accept only our best; we could give her nothing less.

Although Latin was her great love, she loved all learning and inspired thousands of students to make the most of their abilities. But she also loved people, and therefore, listened to our problems without indulging our weakness. With her help, we grew up with the recognition that one failure does not make a Failure, nor one success a Success.

John Donne, a poet, once wrote:

“Any man’s death diminishes me, because I am involved in mankind.”

In a similar way, Mrs. Levin’s death diminishes us all because she was involved with all of us.

To maintain its position at the head of the city high schools, Washington must shape its program to fit the needs of the students and the changing times. This was once again illustrated by the graceful expansion this year in dealing with the incorporation of another campus. Catering to the individual needs of the student body, Washington's curriculum includes all of the academic fields, as well as home economics, industrial arts, and commercial courses. Advanced courses in physics, chemistry, mathematics, and composition have recently been added for those able to cope with college-level subjects.

WEST CAMPUS

For the first time in its more than fifty years of existence, enrollment at Washington became too large to be contained in one building. Beginning in September, over two hundred and fifty semester three students boarded a bus which drove them to additional class rooms in a converted elementary school building, formerly known as the Sixty-Eighth Street School. Here they attended classes in biology, English, and mathematics before returning to the main building at noon. At this time, another group of approximately two hundred semester three students, who had spent the morning in the main building, were waiting to be taken to the West Campus (as it was called) for afternoon sessions in these same subjects.

The apparent ease with which this transfer was accomplished is a tribute to these students as well as to their teachers and administrators. In fact, most commuting students seemed to regard this as a unique experience, providing an interesting break in their day's routine.

Playing an important part in Washington's everyday routine, are the energetic students who give willingly of their time to school services. Hundreds of Tonians spend thousands of hours in a great variety of ways: assisting the teachers, the office personnel, and the administrators; yet their greatest reward is in their own personal growth, through the responsible accomplishment of routine tasks.

Washington offers an outstanding array of clubs which play an important part in the students' all-round development. Although most of these activities take place after regular school hours, their programs are so attractive and stimulating that club membership continues to climb. Like many famous alumni who have preceded them in these activities, club members continue to enjoy this diversion from their studies, to take advantage of these opportunities for leadership, and to make lasting friendships.

ORCHESTRA HAS BUSY SEASON

This year, in addition to performing in Washington's Winter Concert, many members of the band, orchestra, and choir qualified for the All-City Music Festival in May. Since only the best performers from the entire city are chosen for this concert, Washington was proud to have so many participants. Continuing a policy of exchange programs, the orchestra gave a concert at Janesville High School. Additional performances included the annual Christmas program presented before the entire student body. The climax of this busy season was the vital role the orchestra played in the production of the musical, Brigadoon.

BAND MARCHES ON

Washington has always been noted for its outstanding musical organizations, and this year was no exception. Although the highlight of the season is its performance at the Winter Concert, the band participates in many other activities. The marching band, which was a friendly sight and sound at all football games, also performed at several civic functions, including the Memorial Day parade and the Arena Christmas tree lighting ceremony. In April, the entire band traveled to New London for an exchange concert, and in May presented a concert for the student body of Washington.

The stage band was also a busy group. Although entering the stage band festival for the first time, it placed first out of twelve stage bands in class A competition.

CHOIR IS VERSATILE

From Christmas music to Brigadoon — this best describes the versatility of Washington's vocal groups. Nor are their voices limited to the walls of Washington. Included among their many performances were holiday programs at local churches and an exchange concert at Janesville High School. The Winter Concert, including numbers by the Madrigal Singers, Girls' Chorus, and A Cappella Choir highlighted the first half of the season. Much of the second semester's work centered around their performance in the all-school musical, Brigadoon.

With three seasons and ten sports, Washington offers an athletic program to satisfy almost every talent and desire. Because of this diversity, any dedicated and hard-working boy has an opportunity to compete in the sport of his choice. In addition to team sports, he may choose individual events in which he competes only against his own previous record. A popular, recent addition to this department is the gymnastics team. Washington is not only proud of its athletes, but is equally proud of its coaches who play such a vital role in the cultivation and coordination of the athletes' skills.

FOOTBALL

Again proving to the City Conference that it was a football powerhouse to be contended with, Washington started the year with three decisive victories and gave indications that they might go all of the way. However, at this point of the season, the injury toll, which had slowly been mounting, finally caught up with the Tonians. Plagued by this sudden rash of walking wounded, the gridders lost their first conference game. The outlook wasn't any brighter as the Purgolders prepared for their next duel in the all important Homecoming game with Juneau. Still hindered by the absence of first string performers, Washington's "Tradition of Champions" spirit and pertinacity produced a fourth quarter touchdown and victory. Finishing with an impressive five and three record in the well-balanced city league, Washington ended the season in a tie for fourth place.

This year Washington successfully defended its City Conference Cross Country championship for the fourth time. By displaying the balance it had all season, the Tonian Harriers placed all five competitors within the top eight city meet finishers. Its margin of victory was an amazing eighty points. Washington enjoyed such success this year because of its pride, self-discipline, consistency, and spirit. It built up a winning habit early in the season, and carried it to the final meet, where it placed second in the state.

The Washington swimming team enjoyed one of its most successful seasons this year. With depth and top-notch performers in every event, the finmen won the Little City Championship by the impressive margin of forty-three points. This victory marked their third consecutive title. They also maintained an undefeated record in Little City competition during the season.

In addition to a fine dual meet record, the swimmers, while competing against schools which have larger practicing facilities, captured fifth in the City Relays and the City Championships.

Always a strong contender for the City Conference Wrestling title, Washington again displayed a strong team. Although the grapplers were somewhat hindered by the loss of several key men because of injuries or other circumstances, they performed consistently throughout the season. The wrestling team suffered two close defeats by the mere total of three points while they managed to win seven matches by a remarkable average of seventeen points. Rounding out the season, the wrestlers placed fourth in the City Meet and qualified four men in the regionals.

Outstanding contributions were heavy-weight Toby Ackerman's string of twenty-seven consecutive victories, titles won by Kevin Braden and Ackerman, seconds by Terry Graham and Dave Wong, third by Larry Schwister, and fourth by Ed Chow—all in the State Regionals.

Largely due to their inexperience and lack of confidence, the Washington High School basketball squad got off to a slow start this season and had difficulty realizing their capabilities. Troubled by bad luck, the team gave indications of things to come by losing their first five games by a total of only seventeen points. The Purgolders were an exciting team to watch because of the closeness of their games and the fast action involved. As a result of their "never-say-die" attitude and profound expenditure of energy, the cagers won their last three games. In the final game of the season against Riverside, Washington, although down by twenty points in the first half, never let up and finally eked out a two point victory.

Because of the great enthusiasm for this sport, a gymnastic team was organized for the first time this year. The same enthusiasm was also evident in the practices and meets, as indicated by the team's strong showing in competition. With several excellent individual performances, the team placed sixth in the City Meet. Another satisfying finish was provided by the young gymnastic team when it placed a surprising thirteenth in the state, well ahead of the three other city teams which had also started competition this year.

Among the fine exhibitions of the young Purgold unit were David Romant's sixth in the State Meet and his third in the City Meet on the long-horse; Tom Wick's fourth in the City Meet side-horse; and John Pollack's highest point total for the team.

Nineteen sixty-six marked a banner year for Washington track. Getting off to a fast start by winning the City Indoor Championship, the Purgolders displayed the exceptional balance and depth that was to be their trademark. The team's next major victory was the Shorewood Relays, in which twenty-six schools from the area competed. Encountering their first and only defeat in City High School competition, Washington's track squad placed second in the City Meet after winning the City Relays Championship.

School records were set by Jim Taglienti in the pole vault, Dennis Haase in the mile, and Jeff Miller, Fred Schwantes, Eric Moeller, and John Borgh in the mile relay. Taglienti and Haase also placed second and third, respectively in the State Meet.

COACHES

Washington coaches provide a valuable service to our school. They make it possible for boys to mature and acquire skills through participation in sports. This was reflected in the past year's sports season which boasted four city championships.

Setting an example for the underclassmen to follow, the seniors form an integral part of Washington's student body. They are looked to for leadership both in and out of the classroom. Not only does this last year provide greater specialization in their classes, but it also offers many opportunities for the development of leadership qualities through organizations and senior committees. As the seniors in their caps and gowns move their tassels from left to right, they also shift their ambitions and goals from Washington to the outside world.

With a candidness captured only by a camera, the Views section reflects the highlights as well as the quiet moments of the school year. Whether it be faculty frustration or joy, student achievement or failure, it is all brought into focus on these pages. In this way, the spirit that WAS the year, 1967, is recorded to continue the grand tradition established by Tonians of other years.
